FRANK VENEZIA
Lyndhurst High School
Honorary Coach of the North Team

Frank Venezia was working as a business teacher at St. Mary's of Rutherford when, during the 1984-85 school year, the athletic director at the school left for a new job.

Venezia was appointed to fill the position and one of his first responsibilities was to hire a new softball coach. After examining a couple of applications, he decided to take the job himself even though he had no prior experience coaching the sport.

Venezia, a 1976 graduate of Essex Catholic and 1980 grad at Rutgers, quickly adapted to the game.

He was helped by assistant coaches like former Wood-Ridge star Donna Ricker, who then brought aboard legendary North Jersey coach Jim MacDonald, and the program began to flourish.

St. Mary's became one of the premier small-school programs in the state under Venezia, who left the school in 2004 to become a public school administrator, first at Dover and later at Lyndhurst, where he is now a vice-principal.

During his time at St. Mary's, his teams won 379 games while playing a schedule that matched the team against the best programs in the state, large or small. The Gaels won the NJSIAA Parochial B championship in 1998, when the team finished 31-2. Venezia was also named state Coach of the Year that season by The Star-Ledger.

The Super 36 committee is proud to recognize Frank Venezia as this year's honorary coach of the North team.

JOE DIPIETRO
Temple University
Honorary Coach of the South Team

Joe DiPietro was a student at Gloucester County College 37 years ago when he happened to see some disappointed softball players from his high school alma mater, Camden Catholic.

The school was about to drop its JV team, they said, because there was no one to coach. DiPietro told them he'd do it, and the athletic director gave him the job.

He's been coaching softball and making friends through the game ever since. He stayed 25 years at the Cherry Hill school, including the last 15 as head coach. His teams went 274-98 during his time as head man, including consecutive victories over Immaculate Heart in the 1990, '91 and '92 Parochial A state finals. Those teams were also trendsetters in that they were the first in the state to wear shorts as part of their uniform.

He left Camden Catholic after the 2002 season to become head coach at LaSalle University, where he stayed six seasons. He then became head coach at Temple University beginning with the 2009 campaign, where he achieved even more success that lasted until the school made the unfortunate decision to eliminate the softball program along with several other sports at the conclusion of this school year.

He is the winningest coach in Camden Catholic history, and a member of the school's Hall of Fame.

The Super 36 committee is proud to honor Joe DiPietro as this year's honorary coach of the South team.
